WHEREAS, "The 2007 Assessment of Civil Legal Needs and Barriers of Low- and Moderate-Income People in Hawaii" found that only one in five people have their civil legal needs addressed and that only one in three people who contact a civil legal service provider is able to get assistance; and

WHEREAS, one of the goals set forth in "The Community Wide Action Plan: Ten Action Steps to Increase Access to Justice in Hawaii by 2010" was that an appropriate home for funding civil legal services should be established to ensure stable state funding; and

WHEREAS, access to civil legal services by the indigent is critical to providing access to justice for those who cannot afford an attorney; and

WHEREAS, access to civil legal services results in costs savings to the State by way of recovery of federal public benefits (such as SST and VA benefits), reduction of utilization of safety net services such as foster care by establishing guardianships for family caregivers, reduction of dependency on public assistance by securing child support and alimony, a decrease of instances of homelessness through housing representation, and an increase in state tax revenues through employment and re-employment related legal assistance; and
